

CROUDACE HOMES CASE STUDY

Securing a building site from trespassers

Croudace Homes Group is a privately owned housebuilding company operating in both the private and public housing sectors. In 2021, during their new build project in the local area of Bourne End, they found their site being trespassed by troublemakers that refused to leave.

Recognising the urgency of the situation, Croudace enlisted the services of MPW. Leveraging a team of highly skilled guards with excellent conflict management abilities, MPW efficiently and diplomatically solved the trespassing issue, ensuring the safety and integrity of the site.

Security requirements:

➔ SIA DS licensed guards	➔ Personnel trained in conflict management	➔ Daily incident reporting
➔ Site hut and welfare facilities	➔ Thorough risk assessment	➔ Mobile patrol response
➔ Capability of physical intervention	➔ 24/7 surveillance	➔ Security supervisor management

Due to the valuable service provided by MPW, the initial urgent request swiftly evolved into a contractual arrangement for sustained assistance spanning over nine months. Evolving needs such as emergency covers, additional guards and patrols were organised and the business partnership was fruitful—with communication remaining between companies ever since.

RESULTS:

- ✔ Trespassers were removed and any further breaches were prevented.
- ✔ Business and construction was able to continue efficiently
- ✔ Experienced teams in place to ensure the safety of the site and staff
- ✔ Proactive security measures in place to prevent issues before they arise
- ✔ Extra value was provided with a security site hut making the site look professional
- ✔ 24/7 surveillance of the site was conducted
